Program Overview

Lauderdale County was named in honor of Col. James Lauderdale who was born in Virginia about 1780. Lauderdale County was established in 1818, a year before Alabama became a state, by an act of the General Assembly of Alabama Territory. Today waterpower speaks volumes. Coursing through the great turbines of the TVA dams, the mighty waters of the Tennessee River are producing low cost power, lighting the homes of thousands of citizens and turning the wheels of industry in a region second to none in natural and human resources.

The goals of this program is (1) to have children school ready at age five when he/she enters school and (2) to empower parents to become their child's first teacher. At this point, we are enjoying success with our parents becoming that first teacher. This is evident with the enthusiasm that they current possess. In the beginning we often hear "I don't think I can do that" but now they say "I can hardly wait to start this or show my child that".
